

Allies Invade Borneo In New Swing South; Yanks Advance

Canberra, May 1 (AP) — Treasury Minister Joseph B. Chifley told the House tonight that a famous division of Australian troops which had fought in the Middle East was now participating in an action against the Japanese in Borneo.

San Francisco, May 1 (AP) — Allied assault forces swinging southward into the oil producing areas of the Dutch East Indies are invading Borneo, Tokyo radio reported today in an unconfirmed broadcast.

Tokyo said amphibious units were engaged in heavy fighting with the Japanese garrison on beaches near Tarakan, rich Netherlands oil port off the northeastern coast of Borneo. The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications commission said assault waves struck in force last night under cover of a heavy naval bombardment after an earlier landing attempt at noon yesterday was thrown back.

Invasion of Tarakan would be a continuation of the American drive southward through the Philippines and the beginning of an amphibious operation to return valuable oil producing areas to the Allies and bisect the Dutch East Indies.

Tarakan, a favorite target of American bombers which raided Borneo every day in April and all over seven days of March, lies midway between key Allied-held points and strategic Japanese-controlled titles.

Shuri Under Fire
Guam, May 1 (AP) — Tanks of the 96th Infantry Division today were within 800 yards of Shuri, Okinawa's former capital and second largest city.

They dropped 75 to 80 rounds into buildings on the outskirts, the first direct fire on Shuri, said Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland.

Headquarters of Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 9th Division reported 1,500 Japanese killed in the past 72 hours.

Doughboys of Maj. Gen. George W. Griner's 27th Infantry Division captured Machinato airfield on the west coast, but were forced to call on medium tanks to wipe out heavy Japanese opposition from cave positions in their left (east) flank.

Guerrilla Victory
Manila, May 1 (AP) — Capture by Guerrillas of Talikud Island, nine miles off Davao City, was reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose infantrymen driving rapidly toward that big Mindanao port were bothered more by booby-trapped roads than by Japanese troops.

Talikud, five miles long, is strategically located amid shipping lanes deep inside the harbor.

Twenty-fourth Division doughboys under Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff were within 17 miles of Davao city by Sunday and moving swiftly toward the city limits, only three miles ahead.

STREET REPAIR WORK HERE ENDS

Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner reported today that work on repairing winter damage to borough streets has been completed by the town highway department.

Extensive patching work on North Washington, North Stratton and Water streets and Springs and Reynolds avenues is finished, he reported, and the borough highway department workmen now are engaged in clean-up work. Patching work also was done on all of the tar-surfaced streets and alleys, Winebrenner said.

They ended a clean-up of the Tiber from West Middle street to the railroad tracks at the rear of the Gettysburg Throwing Company Monday.

The street patching was done to repair the winter freeze-up damage. The holes were filled with stones and tar in a hot-patch operation. The workmen used the new hot-patch purchased last year by the borough.

State Workmen Busy
Mr. Winebrenner directs the borough work by telephone and through early morning conferences with foremen from his bed at his Baltimore street residence where he has been confined for the last three weeks.

J. William Kendlehart, Jr., superintendent of the local office of the state highway department, said that his men also have completed a number of minor maintenance patching operations on roads of which they are in charge.

State highway workers began today to repave the white center lines on the major highways in the county.

PFC. CAREY AND S 1-C M'INTYRE ARE WOUNDED

Two families in and near Gettysburg have received word that members serving in the armed forces in the Pacific and in Germany have been wounded in combat.

The casualties are:

Pfc. Ralph A. Carey, 27-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carey, Gettysburg R. 3, seriously wounded in action in Germany.

S. 1-C Robert A. McIntyre, 27, husband of Mrs. Leona (Stoner) McIntyre, West Middle street, wounded in the legs by shrapnel in the South Pacific.

Brother Is Prisoner

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carey, Gettysburg R. 3, received a War Department telegram this morning notifying them that their son, Pfc. Ralph A. Carey, who will be 28 years old next Tuesday, was seriously wounded in action in Germany April 18. He has been hospitalized the message said, and his hospital address should be received soon.

Pfc. Carey, who served in the infantry, has been serving with the armed forces since June of 1941, and went overseas two and a half years ago. He trained at army camps in Georgia, Florida and Texas. Before induction he did farm work here and then worked in Florida immediately before being called for armed service.

He has two brothers in the Army. The youngest of the three sons is Pfc. Newell E. Carey, 23, who has been a prisoner of the Germans since last September. Three letters have come from him in a Nazi prison, the last being dated February 22, giving little information but stating he was well.

The other brother, Pfc. Clyde C. Carey, 29, was overseas but was injured during a training period in England and was returned to this country. Now he serves as a machinist at a Staten Island Army hospital.

Served on LSM

S 1/C Robert A. McIntyre, 27, husband of Mrs. Leona (Stoner) McIntyre, West Middle street, received shrapnel wounds in both legs during action April 14 somewhere in the South Pacific according to a letter received from him by his wife Monday.

The letter, which was written April 20, stated he was now in a naval hospital but did not reveal the location.

S. 1/C McIntyre entered the service on April 3, 1944, and trained at Great Lakes, Ill.; Middle Creek, Va., and San Diego, Calif., before going to the south Pacific early in January. He is serving on an LSM boat.

A sister, Lt. Mildred McIntyre Wires, is now at a convalescent hospital at Camp Pickett, Va. She had served at a hospital in England and was returned to this country after becoming ill.

The wounded sailor is the father of four children. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McIntyre, 141 East Water street. Prior to his induction he was employed by the Gettysburg Steam Laundry.

T-5 Herbert Smith Hit By Strafers

Tech/5 Herbert L. Smith, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Smith, 145 West Broadway, was wounded April 10 in Germany when the jeep which he was driving was attacked by six German airplanes, his parents have learned in a letter from their other twin son, Tech/5 Harvey Smith.

In his letter to his parents, Corporal Smith said his brother had received shrapnel wounds in the cheeks and legs when struck by fragments from anti-personnel bombs dropped by the Nazis. Harvey was not with his brother, who was driving the jeep for his captain and several other men. When the airplanes attacked, the men ran from the vehicle to an open field, but three of the party were wounded in the action.

Today Mrs. Smith received a letter dated April 24 from Herbert in which he said he had received wounds of the face, side, left arm and legs and a broken left leg and fractured jaw. She also received a card from an army medical officer in which the same wounds were detailed. The letter from Herbert evidently had been written by a nurse or Red Cross worker and Herbert said that he would try to write later himself.

BRITISH OFFICER EXPLAINS LOWER CASUALTY LIST

The vastly improved methods, materials and techniques of the army medical services have brought great increases in the survival rate among battle casualties, Col. Frank Gillespie, of the British Army Medical Corps, told members of the local Rotary, Lions and Soroptimist clubs Monday evening at a joint dinner meeting at the Battleford hotel.

The British officer who served in the first World War and saw duty in North Africa, Malta, India, Iceland, Italy and Normandy in this war observed: "We gain valuable medical experience in war but we learn at the cost of blood—and not usually our own blood either."

Tracing the speedy organization of the medical units from its first quick contact with casualties at the battle lines through the collecting and clearing company units to the evacuation and field hospitals, he spoke specially of the adaptability of the jeep in medical corps work and later showed pictures of litter-carrying jeeps used in battle areas.

Saw "Reverse Lend-Lease"

Blood plasma has saved many lives, the officer declared, and told of the increasing use of whole blood at the evacuation hospitals to treat critical casualties who need more than plasma. The blood is sent in refrigerated units to the hospital units and has been one of the factors that has boosted the survival rate of casualties at forward surgical units to about 96 per cent, a figure far above that in the other war or the early days of the present conflict.

Russians Seek May Day Victory At Nazi Capital

By TOM OCHILTREE (Associated Press War Editor)

American Seventh Army troops, flushed with their victory at Munich, plunged today toward Innsbruck and the northern entrance to the Brenner pass in a drive that threatened all the Germans in the western third of the Nazis' Alpine redoubt.

Simultaneously the U. S. Third Army sent five divisions south of the Isar river within 58 miles of Hitler's mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden while American forces in Italy sought to compress the redoubt area from the south.

The Nazis were attempting to hold back the American drive from the south toward the Brenner pass in the area above Lake Garda. Apparently the Germans sought to reorganize their disjointed forces in northern Italy for the long, hard march up into the Alps. The New Zealand troops, driving toward a junction with Yugoslav partisans in Trieste, were reported more than 15 miles beyond the Piave river.

Flaming May Day Assault in Berlin

In flaming Berlin the Russians were making a determined assault in an effort to capture the Reich capital on this May Day. The Reichstag, Heinrich Himmler's ministry of the interior and 200 blocks of buildings in the central part of the city were in Russian hands and Soviet troops were laying siege to Hitler's underground fortress in the Tiergarten.

The German air force made a last desperate attempt to parachute supplies to the besieged defenders of Berlin.

WORKMEN ARE EXONERATED IN BUDDY DEATH

Russian troops driving into the last-ditch Nazi defenses in the Tiergarten had been told by Premier Marshal Stalin that the "last assault is on" and that the Russian people were celebrating May Day "under conditions of the victorious termination of the great patriotic war."

Nazis Leaving Copenhagen
Count Folke Bernadotte, vice chairman of the Swedish Red Cross who has been reported acting as an intermediary in German-Allied peace negotiations, arrived in Stockholm from Nazi-occupied Denmark. He replied with a polite "Good morning" when queried concerning reports that he was bringing new peace proposals from Himmler.

The free Danish underground, meanwhile, reported that German troops were withdrawing from Copenhagen to the German-Danish border. The free Danish press service, however, denied the movement had started.

On behalf of the troops under his command Gen. Eisenhower in a special order of the day extended congratulations to the U. S. Seventh Army for its seizure of Munich, which he called "the cradle of the Nazi beast."

20 Miles To Brenner Pass

At last reports Seventh Army units were within a dozen miles of Innsbruck and 20 miles of the Brenner Pass. Probably no more than 110 miles separated the Seventh Army from Gen. Mark Clark's victorious troops in Italy but the Alps lay between these two forces.

On the Seventh Army's right flank the French First Army plunged inside Austria and captured Friedrichshafen, where the Germans once made Zeppelins.

The Third Army units driving on Berchtesgaden reached a point 12 miles south of the Isar river in the 20-mile bridgehead extending north-east and southwest of Landau. Gen. Patton's troops were 47 miles from Salzburg and only about 16 miles from Braunau, where Hitler was born.

In the drive to hem in Czechoslovakia Patton's 11th Armored Division crossed the Austrian border at Oberkappel, 27 miles northwest of Linz. The Germans said that Linz was being approached by the Russians from the west.

British troops in the north increased the menace to Hamburg, Luebeck and the whole Danish peninsula.

GREAT TEST OF INGENUITY SEEN IN REEDUCATION OF NAZI NATURE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

German atrocities — and more German atrocities.

Every hour adds to the record of Nazi infamy as that unholiest of sins sinks in defeat. Small wonder then that much of my reader mail has to do with Hitlerite savagery, which has sent Allied tempers over the boiling point, and among the letters is one from an editor on a southern newspaper, who writes:

"During my long service I have never read of anything to compare with the inhuman things being done to the poor victims that have fallen into these bastards' hands. x x x It might be an unchristian way to look at it, but I believe one of the most just punishments for the German race would be to sterilize every male left so there would be no more Germans to rise up in twenty-five or thirty years to start another World War."

Another editor proposes that a large number of substantial citizens of Germany, with their families, be uprooted and be distributed around the world in countries needing immigrants. He would substitute for them in Germany an equal number of citizens of other countries who would be given sufficient economic assistance to make the transfer attractive.

Intensive Education

This second editor makes the point that the Germans are dangerous when massed because they are susceptible to regimentation. When they emigrate they become useful citizens. He also believes that the introduction of foreign blood into the Reich would have a beneficial effect on the race.

These drastic suggestions likely will evoke sympathetic understanding in the average mind, for one hears widespread expression of the wish that in some way Germany might be rendered impotent to do further harm. However, the consensus of the Allied chiefs seems to be that the only feasible way to reform the Reich is by a process of intensive education.

Of course, such a program presents momentous problems, and another editor—writes to ask:

"Now assuming that every German with enough intelligence or courage to oppose Hitler has long since been liquidated, is it not fair to assume that the vast majority of Germans left under the Fuehrer are too completely debased to accept Allied tutelage? Is it ever possible to educate anyone at the point of a bayonet?"

Well, we can say at once that you can't do a successful job of reformation at the point of a bayonet. Admittedly, too, it will require the greatest possible skill to make any educational program succeed, even if the big stick is kept discreetly out of sight.

Hitler Did and Others Can

However, it strikes me that in this idea of education lies our only hope. Maybe I'm too trusting, but I believe we can make it work if we go at it in the right way. As remarked in this column the other day, Hitler has taught the world what can be done by intensive education. In less than a decade he completely changed the natures of most of the young folk in Germany, and even swung a host of the older people into line.

Hitler achieved this in the case of the children and youth by taking over their education altogether. He largely eliminated parental and church influence. He substituted paganism for religion and thus created a mentality that accepted the aggression and atrocities which he perpetrated. Destruction of religious beliefs in the young mind gave him his greatest strength.

If Hitler can change human nature, others can do it. The Allied problem will be to discover the right method of approach. Education at the hands of foreign conquerors might not be successful, whereas right-minded German educators—sympathetic with the Allied aim of helping their country—might succeed. This will be one of the greatest tests of ingenuity which the Allies will encounter in postwar planning.

FREE 130,000 WAR PRISONERS

With the U. S. 14th Armored Division, May 1 (AP) — In high spirits 50,000 Americans, half of them Air Force officers, almost mobbed 14th Armored Division tankmen today in one of the wildest liberations ever witnessed in Germany.

The Americans were among 130,000 Allied prisoners — including 37 high-ranking officers — freed at Stalag 7A and in the towns around Moosburg where the Germans had the biggest concentration of prisoners in Germany.

In contrast to the starvation conditions prevailing in the other liberated camps, the prisoners in the Moosburg area for the most part were in good physical condition. This was due to the presence among the prisoners of a number of Allied officers, including many colonels.

Another factor contributing to their well-being was the nearness of Switzerland, from whence the International Red Cross was able to provide food parcels without encountering too great transportation difficulties.

At Stalag 7A in Moosburg, where 37,000 prisoners including 14,891 Americans were kept, there were 175,000 Red Cross food packages on hand when the camp was liberated.

GUY D. MANGUS NOW A MAJOR

(Special to The Times)
With the 14th Antiaircraft Command in New Guinea—Recently promoted to the rank of major was Guy D. Mangus, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Mangus, 109 Mill street, Neodesha, Kansas. His wife, Anna Augusta Mangus, and children, Guy, Jack and Gladys Ann, live at 253 Baltimore street, Gettysburg. Assigned as assistant adjutant general, Major Mangus serves in the 13th Antiaircraft Command, Major General William F. Marquand, commanding general.

Being a "regular Army" man, Major Mangus's career started back in 1922. Between 1924 and 1937 he served as a sergeant at Fort Rucker and Long Island Sound Fort. In July, 1937, he was assigned to Fort Randolph, Canal Zone, and served there as staff sergeant until October, 1941. At that time he returned to the United States to serve as clerical master sergeant with the 40th Coast Artillery at Fort Sheridan, Illinois. When the 40th CA moved to Australia, Major Mangus again found himself overseas. In September, 1942, he was discharged in order that he might accept an appointment as a Warrant Officer, and remained with the 40th CA as assistant adjutant. On June 10, 1943, he was commissioned by appointment as 1st Lieutenant. Six months later he was assigned to the 14th Antiaircraft Command in his present position. Early in 1944, he was promoted to captain.

During his stay in the army, Major Mangus has earned the American defense medal and the Asiatic-Pacific theater medal with a service clasp for the East Indies campaign.

COLLEGE GIVEN 1ST PLACE ON WAR PROGRAM

The War Savings program of Saint Joseph's college, Emmitsburg, as described in the scrapbook submitted to the War Finance committee, has been judged the winner in the state of Maryland.

In announcing the decision, Miss Mary B. Maulsby, director, Schools at War, wrote: "I offer my sincere congratulations on the ingenious manner in which it (scrapbook) was set forth as well as on the splendid well-rounded War Savings program which it portrays. I have sent it to Washington to be entered in the National Contest." In the same letter an invitation was extended to "put together a fifteen-minute radio program of your War Savings activities and bring it here to Baltimore." The students of the college have accepted this opportunity for a broadcast over WFBR and shall be in readiness as soon as a time can be arranged.

Following the suggestions in the War Bond campaign outlined by the U. S. Treasury department for colleges and universities, Saint Joseph's has aimed at developing a well-rounded program which involves joint participation of students and faculty. The following three points considered as requisite for a good program have been met by the college: Winning the Minute-Man Flag for every dormitory and displaying it prominently (which has been in effect for the past three semesters); sponsoring a piece of war equipment in which a panel will be placed with the name of the school, and scheduling an activity in seven fields, such as dramatics, social events, economics, journalism, etc.

Infant Quads Have To Pay Income Tax

Philadelphia, May 1 (AP) — They're just six months old today, but the Ciriminello quadruplets already are past two stiff hurdles.

The quads, first ever born in a Caesarian operation, have come through their first illness—a case of snuffles—and have paid their first income tax.

Their father, Joseph Ciriminello, tells about the income tax a little sadly. "People have funny ideas that we've gotten awfully rich since the quads were born," he said. "But do you know I can't even deduct them from my income tax? The babies had to pay tax themselves on the money received for endorsement of a milk company."

15 MARRIAGE LICENSES

Clerk of the Courts Mrs. Emma S. Sheffer reported today that her office issued 15 marriage licenses during April, one less than the number issued during the same month in 1944. The number, however, was two and a half times greater than the six permits granted during March this year.

Balanced Diet Is Promised Civilians

Washington, May 1 (AP)—Americans were told today a "decent diet" will be maintained despite a 25 per cent slash in sugar rations and the prospects of higher point values for other foodstuffs.

Further civilian belt tightening was foreshadowed when:

1. Samuel I. Rosenman, presidential food scout, recommended that the United States should supply a "substantial share" of civilian needs in northwest Europe. He acknowledged this probably would cut into homefront food supplies.

2. The inter-agency committee on foreign shipments said "we shall have to make some adjustments in particular foods" and hinted at high ration points for fats and oils.

At the same time mounting sentiment was evidenced in Congress for one-man control of all food matters, now divided among the OPA, the War Food Administration and other agencies.

FINAL OKAY FOR SOFT COAL PACT; WLB GETS HARD COAL DISPUTE

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, May 1 (AP)—John L. Lewis cleared the last government hurdle confronting his new soft coal contract today but negotiations for an anthracite agreement skidded into the War Labor Board as a dispute.

Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis stamped a final okay on the bituminous wage agreement and in addition authorized an average 16-cent-a-ton price increase to offset its costs to the operators.

The hard coal contract expired last midnight, and work stoppages in the anthracite pits were prepared for despite a WLB order to continue production under terms of the expired agreement. The board promised any wage agreements would be made retroactive to today.

Miss Perkins Fails

An 11th hour effort by Labor Secretary Perkins to persuade the miners and anthracite operators, meeting in New York, to agree to a contract she proposed failed.

Lewis later said his scale committee had voted unanimously to "advise anthracite workers to resume work when the anthracite operators accept Secretary of Labor Perkins' recommendation for a new contract."

He declined further comment after Miss Perkins hurried back to Washington and certified the case to the WLB. The board summoned union and operator representatives to a 2:30 p. m. (EWT) show cause hearing.

81 Cents A Day

If it follows the pattern set in the bituminous negotiations a month ago, the board will ask both sides to extend the contract another 30 days to permit continued negotiations. The soft coal operators and Lewis signed a contract 11 days after agreeing to an extension.

Davis approved the bituminous agreement last night, a few hours before that 30-day extension would have expired.

Davis accepted the contract without changing a comma. The War Labor Board likewise had approved it in its entirety. The agreement, according to WLB estimates, gives the average miner 81 cents a day more in take-home pay.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg—The time having expired for registration of citizens for the positions of burgess and commissioner, Guy Nunemaker revealed today that only two names will appear on the ballot. There will, however, be spaces for unfilled names of citizens who may be elected by write-ins.

Joseph R. Hoke, who has served for three years as burgess, has registered again for this position. Lloyd G. Ohler, who is serving now as commissioner, will again have his name on the ballot.

Election day is May 7, between the hours of 12 noon and 7 p. m. at the fireman's hall.

The meeting of the Women's club was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Joseph Hoke. The meeting opened with "Salute to the Flag," music chairman, Mrs. R. Zacharias, led the club in singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers" in tribute to the late President Roosevelt, followed by the reading of the American Creed.

The 17 members and four guests present then recited the "Our Father" for the success of the San Francisco Conference.

Mrs. Shriver and Mrs. Hoke demonstrated the making of Russian meat cakes and served a luncheon to those present.

Mrs. Robert Killen reviewed "The Apostle," by Sholem Asch. A list of books for good reading suggestions was given.

It was reported to the group that the Boy Scouts would make a house to house canvass for clothing to be sent abroad.

The book "Lost Island," by James Norman Hall, was donated to the library by Mrs. Gertrude Cameron with the wish that the club members would have first opportunity to read it.

It was voted to give $5 to the Emmitsburg high school and to St. Euphemia's Parochial grade school to be used for prizes.

The next afternoon of games will be on May 10 at the home of Mrs. Edwin Chrismer.

The next meeting will be held at the fireman's hall on May 24. The Home Management committee will have charge of the demonstration.

'DACHAU' MEANS NAZI DEPRAVITY

Dachau, Germany, May 1 (AP)—Every soldier, officer and war correspondent attached to the 42nd (Rainbow) Division of the U. S. Seventh Army today had one word seared into his soul—"Dachau."

It represents the last word in savagery, depravity, sadism and inhumanity. Here human beings were experimented on as though they were guinea pigs, were eliminated by slow starvation and their bodies burned wholesale in a gigantic crematorium. Thirty-five railway cars loaded with corpses enfiladed literally to skin and bones are lined up outside the camp.

Among Dachau's 32,000 inmates are some 1,400 living corpses. These were the survivors of about 4,000 who had been shipped, according to the best information available, from Buchenwald before the Allies took that northern concentration camp.

They had been squeezed like cattle into freight cars, where they were kept for 21 days, 80 to a car. According to their testimony they were left without food for five days, and thereafter given mere scraps.

In the crematory there was a stench that made the strongest men turn pale and flee to the outside for air. In two rooms of this institution were naked human bodies, bearing the signs of horrible torture and piled to the ceiling. The SS (Elite Guard) guards had been unable to complete their task of burning the emaciated bodies, though they worked in shifts of 30, two and one-half hours per shift, and kept at it day and night.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By WADE WERNER
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)
Wiesbaden, Germany (AP)—Hope—or wishful thinking—is stirring again among the vanquished Germans of Wiesbaden, once an internationally popular health and recreation resort.

One gets the impression that the city would like to be to the Americans what Paris was to her German conquerors. The Germans spent money freely in Paris and had a good time while it lasted; many Wiesbadeners frankly are hoping the Americans will do likewise here.

Enterprising citizens have asked the military government for permission to open night spots for American officers and soldiers.

One ambitious promoter submitted an elaborate prospectus for the establishment of a Yank shopping and entertainment center, with bars, shops, restaurants, laundry and cleaning establishments, and even a theater.

They May Get the Idea
A constant stream of proposals for doing business with the Yanks flows across the desk of Maj. R. S. Fellows, the AMG executive officer. All are rejected.

It seems difficult to make the people realize that the occupation this time is based on a policy entirely different than that of World War I.

The town may grasp the idea when the Red Cross starts operating Wiesbaden's great Kurhaus—once an entertainment center for the 200,000 visitors who came here yearly. The Kurhaus will be a recreation center for GIs.

Some parts of it have been badly battered and burned—the ornate concert hall, now a roofless wreck, looks like a Roman ruin—but plenty of undamaged space remains for the Red Cross' lounges, cafes, movies and dances.

The dances will conform, of course, to the non-fraternization rule. Many Wiesbaden girls would like to attend, but that's strictly taboo. The 90 WAC's stationed here are likely to be popular when some 8,000 soldiers begin looking for dance partners.

CARRIER "F.D.R." LAUNCHED
New York, May 1 (AP)—The U.S.S. Franklin D. Roosevelt, 45,000-ton aircraft carrier, was dedicated Sunday by Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal to the aims of the late President — to win the war and maintain the peace.

London, May 1 (AP)—Russia asserted Monday that Soviet citizens, liberated by the British-American armies in the west, have been held in Allied camps behind barbed wire "in absolutely intolerable conditions" and—in some cases—forced to work 10 or 12 hours daily.

Paris, May 1 (AP)—Every American soldier liberated from German prison camps will go home "as fast as the Army can get him there," supreme headquarters announced Monday.

May—Lawn, Garden, Farm

1. Start war on weeds early. Cut all weeds frequently; place immature weeds on compost heap or use them for mulching purposes.
2. Almost all insect pests make their appearance in May. Keep in mind to write the editor for control information.
3. Darken the brooder house when chicks turn cannibals. Keep dry mash before them all the time to prevent idleness.
4. Pop corn should be planted a week to ten days before field corn.
5. Dwarf Essex rape, while often started in April, may be seeded any time in early May for mid-June pasturage.
6. Canned tomatoes are the best substitute for citrus fruits in the winter diet. Planting plans should be made accordingly.
7. Sell roosters as soon as the hatching season ends. If home eggs are not used for hatching, do not keep male birds.
8. Plant lice appear in full fury this month. Nicotine sulphate in spray or dust is the most effective control weapon.
9. Set out well rooted plants of the Sweet Bell pepper as soon as frost dangers are past.
10. Keep a close watch for flea beetles on all small ornamental and vegetable plants. Spray with Bordeaux mixture to repel them.
11. House flies breed mainly in horse manure heaps and decaying vegetable matter. Screens, traps and poisons should be employed.
12. Prepare soils now for planting dahlia tubers later.
13. Cooking vegetables in the least possible quantity of water means a valuable saving in vital vitamins.
14. Mid-May is the latest safe date to feed deciduous shade trees with fertilizer.
15. Start war on the Mexican beetle as soon as the first adult beetles or their spine-covered young appear on bean plants.
16. Water lily bulbs should be planted by this time.
17. Gardeners who do not know how to prepare poison bait to kill cutworms may obtain the information on request to the editor.
18. Planting one or more of the resistant varieties is the safest way to avoid losses of tomatoes from Fusarium wilt.
19. Soybeans should be seeded at once for green manure roles.
20. Green varieties of celery, such as the Giant Pascal, are richer in vitamins than the white, blanched kinds.
21. When ants invade kitchens, pantries or the lawn and garden, write the editor for control information.
22. Prevent the striped cucumber beetle from feeding on small cucumber and squash plants, as it carries wilt.
23. Sow another bed of lettuce in a somewhat sheltered place.
24. Bordeaux mixture applied every 10 to 12 days prevents potato blight and drives off leafhoppers, the cause of hopperburn.
25. Dahlia tubers may be planted this week if the soil is warm and otherwise satisfactory.
26. Grow one of the resistant varieties or strains of sweet corn where wilt (Stewart's Disease) was troublesome last year.

27. Give preference to yellow fruits and vegetables over white varieties (peaches, sweet potatoes and rutabagas.)

28. Mosquitoes breed only in stagnant water. Remember this fact when staging a prevention crusade against this summer pest.

29. Sorghum cane should be planted this week.

30. Mulch newly planted trees, shrubs and vines with vegetation as a protection against dry weather.

31. Do not wait until plant diseases or insect enemies have destroyed plants; write the editor for needed information in May whenever problems arise.

OPPOSE BILLS

Pittsburgh, May 1 (AP)—The Pittsburgh ministerial union expressed disapproval of two bills pending in the state legislature—bills which would legalize ice hockey on Sunday and permit horse racing. The ministers called the measures "demoralizing" and said their enactment would "interfere with religious training of youth" and "contribute to juvenile delinquency."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SCHEINLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

Recognition!

I have just read again a most interesting survey by Dr. Walter G. Whitman, Assistant Director, Chemicals Bureau, War Production Board, in which he writes of 'the nation's beverage distillers as "an almost unparalleled example of the overnight conversion of an entire industry from peace to war," and reports that the beverage distilling industry had produced enough alcohol to meet the entire synthetic rubber, direct military and lease-lend requirements since January 1st, 1942.

With perhaps pardonable pride we at SCHEINLEY's hold our heads a little higher and stick out our chests a bit further, and being very, very human we are inspired to do even better—with a little pat on the back.

But frankly speaking, we distillers are perfectly willing to share our pride of achievement with American industry generally. If the distilling industry has earned this fine encomium from Dr. Whitman, because it completely shifted its normal pursuits and "went all-out to war," it is just another expression of the American way of life.

And when the war is over and the claims of "who won the war" will be launched, in the usual American manner, perhaps down in a little postscript, there will be a note stating how fortunate we in America are. Repeal of the late lamentable Prohibition period made possible the rebirth of an industry which was able to convert overnight to the making of precious wartime alcohol, without which, in proper quantities, our allies and we would have suffered tragically.

Thank you, Dr. Whitman, for your report to the nation, which surely leads to better understanding and greater appreciation of an important business.

CHARACTER

How is anything achieved save by labor—heart and hand—?
Ever see a garden grow that by someone wasn't planned?
If the space were left to chance and to every wind that blows
Would the lovely flowering plants be in nicely ordered rows?

Oh, 'tis true some men are born with the gifts of sense and skill,
But to use his talents given, man, himself, must find the will.
And there's never song nor book, painted scene nor sculptured stone,
But some genius has worked that its beauty might be known.

There's no manhood ready-made; there's no conquest that is free.
When you meet the sort of man that you wish yourself to be,
Just remember, boy or mine, every trait that you admire
Has been worked for, day by day, and has been tested under fire.

Today's Talk
TIME OUT

How very few there are who have learned to appreciate the great value of time out—time out to rest, to relax, to think, to meditate, and secretly to pray. Time out to read, to investigate, to discover, to adventure, and time out to cement friendships.

Every day in our newspapers we read of useful men and women, taken out of life in their fullest maturity, largely because they didn't take time to take care of themselves. The blooded horse, as a rule, gets greater and more exacting care than the most useful of human beings.

No matter how strenuous and exciting an athletic contest may be, it is always arranged so that its contestants can take time out, in order to renew their energy and give them the opportunity to think things over. But, in our every-day lives, with so many things to occupy our minds, we neglect to take time out—and the penalty is often very great.

The functions of this body of ours are forever at work. So marvelous is its machinery timed that the least disturbance is telegraphed to the brain for immediate relief. Busy as the heart is, it takes the fraction of a second out after each beat, in order to rest. But if you drive that heart, and abuse its function, it exacts payment in some form or other—often compelling time out for rest and a new appraisal.

It is amazing how much more can be accomplished by taking regular time out for a radical change of routine. Thus, after a long journey to some interesting destination, or after experiencing weeks of a happy vacation, perhaps devoted to nothing more important than honest and comfortable "loafing," one returns to his habitual routine refreshed, renewed, and actually re-conditioned.

The most foolish of all excuses is the one so often offered, "I haven't got time!" Of course you have time. We all have it—all the time that there is—and it is ours to use and arrange. It was never meant that we should burn it, and in so doing burn our lives out as well. It was meant that we should take time out, in order to conserve all that we are for its best use.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Human Tongue."

Out Of The Past
From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

FIFTY YEARS AGO
Change of Name: The name of the McClellan House is to be changed to Hotel Gettysburg.

It has had a series of names. From 1800 up to the death of James Scott in 1808 it was kept by him and appeared to have been known as Scott's Tavern. In April, 1810, this property was bought and kept by Wm. McClellan, and was named by him the "Indian Queen."

How long it retained that name I do not know. But in my recollection it was known as the Franklin House, which was changed to the McClellan House within a comparatively recent period.

Marriages: Twomey—Ramer.—April 30, in this place, by Rev. W. E. Martin, Dennis M. Twomey to Miss Elena G. Ramer, both of this place.

Local Miscellany: The Reformed church will meet in Fairfield on the 16th of May.

Charles A. Blocher has refitted his jewelry store with four fine counter cases and two large wall cases. They show off the fine stock of jewelry and cut glass to good advantage. The walls have been prettily papered and the floor covered with linoleum in tile figures. The whole effect is most pleasing.

The funeral of Cornelius Bream, of Huntingtown, township, attracted a large concourse of friends. There were 80 carriages in the funeral cortege and 500 people were at the Upper Bermudian church where the services were held. Dinner was served to 290.

Mr. Frank Hersh, manager of Meadow Valley Stock farm, has consented to show the herd of Jersey cows on the Center Square, Gettysburg, Saturday next.

Recent Will: Elizabeth Kalbfleisch, of Gettysburg, wills and bequeaths the balance of her estate, after debts and funeral expenses and cost of tombstone, to her grandchildren that may be living at the time of her decease, share and share alike.

Wedding Bells: On last Wednesday at 12 o'clock, noon, Miss Mary Livingston McKnight, daughter of the Rev. Dr. H. W. McKnight, and the Rev. Luther Scott Black were married in Christ Lutheran church, of which the groom is pastor. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, assisted by the Rev. Luther Y. Deyoe, of Harrisburg.

Philip Bickle, the page, carried the wedding ring on a white satin cushion. Dr. Ross Black, of Hanover, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Sophie Sadtler, Edith Howells and Rose Hoffman, of Baltimore; Misses Margaret McClean, Grace Valentine and Annie D. McPherson, of Gettysburg. They were attired in white organdy gowns. The bride's gown was of white satin trimmed with lace, and she wore a long white veil and carried a small book from which the service was read.

The maid of honor was Miss Louise Miller, of Pine Grove. The ribbon girls, members of the bride's Sunday school class, were Misses Ethel Wolf, Bessie Cox, Elsie Croll and Alice Musselman. They wore white dotted swiss, trimmed with yellow chiffon and ribbon.

The ushers were the Rev. Herbert Alteman, of Chambersburg; Edward Kappelman, of Baltimore; William Reitzell, of Clear Spring, Md.; William B. Keefer, of Cressona, and H. C. Pickling and Charles Huber, of Gettysburg. All during the ceremony, sweet, low music was played on the organ by Miss Alice Baugher.

Personal Mention: Misses Ada Baker and Gerlie Sherfy, of Gettysburg, are taking the summer course at the Littlestown Normal school.

Mrs. Charles Mumper, of Littlestown, is visiting relatives here.

WHIPLASH FIGHT DRIVES CONFAB NEARER TO NEW CONTROVERSY

UNITED NATIONS TODAY
(By The Associated Press)
Executive committee meets 10:30 a. m., Pacific War Time. Full conference meets 3:30 p. m., PWT. Secretary Stettinius presiding.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
San Francisco, May 1 (AP)—The sting of a whiplash fight over Argentina and Poland drove the United Nations toward a new controversy today over who should control the critical commissions and committees of the world security conference.

This organizational problem normally might have gone through with unity and good feelings on all sides. It appeared likely, however, to intensify the struggle for leadership between the United States and Russia; which yesterday cost the Soviet union a defeat on both Argentina and Poland.

Delegates generally seemed to feel that Russia would not pull out of the conference for this or similar reasons—despite constant speculation on her future course. The Russians, it was learned, are still discussing conference plans of the weeks ahead. But pessimism about the prospects for unity among the big powers was at a new low.

International Blocs
The situation was dramatically spotlighted late yesterday. Foreign Commissar Molotov marched sternly to the speakers platform at a public session of the full conference to demand a delay in inviting Argentina. Secretary Stettinius mounted to the same rostrum a short time later to insist on immediate and favorable action on the Argentine bid.

Stettinius won for the United States on two counts: The conference voted 28 to 7 against delaying action on inviting Argentina and 31 to 4 that the invitation be extended immediately.

On the first question, Norway, New Zealand, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Greece voted with Russia against extending the invitation.

The American nations, having decided their position previously, voted solidly for Argentina, and to some delegates, gloomy over the outlook for regaining the short-lived harmony here, it appeared that the first outlines of international blocs were clearly discernible.

Molotov Box Score
As the score of the pulling and hauling stood to date, here is what Foreign Commissar Molotov has won and lost:

1. He has won seats for the White Russian and Ukrainian Soviets in the conference and later in the assembly of the world organization.

2. He has won his fight for four Presidents of the conference rather than one, so that Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain, Foreign Minister Soong of China, Stettinius and himself take turns in presiding over conference sessions. But he has lost his fight to have the commission and committee chairmanships split four ways.

3. He lost his fight either to keep Argentina out of the conference or to have the present Warsaw government of Poland invited along with Argentina.

4. On the credit side of his fight for the present Polish government, however, he has built up what many diplomats here consider a powerful case for arguing to the people of Poland that Russia wanted them represented here and the United States and Britain kept them away.

5. He lost a proposal to have the International Trade Union Congress represented at the conference by an observer. He told a news conference that when opposition appeared to this proposal in a steering committee meeting he decided not to press the point.

House Moves To Get War Criminals

Washington, May 1 (AP)—The House hastened Monday to snatch the sanctuary of neutral countries from Nazi war criminals.

Without awaiting a formal report from a Congressional committee's inspection of German atrocity camps, the chamber scheduled debate on a resolution calling on the government to use arms if necessary to capture war criminals who seek refuge behind the boundaries of peaceful nations.

Rep. Luther A. Johnson (D-Tex.), acting chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, predicted the resolution would be approved overwhelmingly and sent on to the senate.

The resolution came up early in a legislative week to be devoted largely to foreign affairs debate. At the top of today's house calendar was legislation to put the United States into an international food organization. Tomorrow it opens de-

BARS TO CIVILIAN BUILDING EASED

Washington, May 1 (AP)—Bars against civilian building were lowered a notch Monday as the government worked rapidly to head off unemployment resulting from munitions cutbacks after V-E day.

WPB offered manufacturers priority help and urged them to "file immediately" if they need it to construct additions or make alterations in their plants in order to get a fast start on civilian goods production when the reconversion green light is flashed.

The agency also extended to all barge on a proposed constitutional amendment to scrap the senate's exclusive control over treaties and make future peace pacts subject to ratification by both branches of congress.

Production officials were expected to continue revoking scores of minor restrictions on civilian production. Forty-one such regulations were dropped Saturday as WPB worked feverishly to get as much preparatory work as possible accomplished before the fighting in Europe halts.

War Manpower Commission officials meanwhile disclosed a complete program mapped for the year after Germany's collapse, based on the prediction a "substantial" number of workers will be idle temporarily in the first three months.

Governor's Prison Program Is Passed

Harrisburg, May 1 (AP)—Passage of Governor Martin's $15,000,000 prison reorganization program cleaned up another major item today as the general assembly pressed for final adjournment this week-end.

Hundreds of bills at the same time faced death in committee under administration plans to conclude the session Saturday. Measures which have not been on the senate or house calendar at close of today's session cannot be enacted.

Among these are many departmental propositions, including permanent establishment of a state disaster system, making venereal diseases reportable to health authorities by physicians and regulating vivisection of dogs.

BRITISH OFFICER

fundations were perfected in the Sicilian and Italian campaigns after costly lessons were learned in North Africa, the speaker asserted. One innovation was the use of platoons of specialists from field hospitals in forward areas.

Telling of his observations in Normandy, he spoke of the "reverse lend-lease" in operation there under which whole blood donated by Britishers in England was flown and used by Yankee field hospital units.

Colonel Gillespie paid special tribute to the Red Cross nurses and field workers who served wide varieties of needs of the battle casualties. He spoke specially of the use of the amphibious "ducks" and LST's in removing wounded after delivering combat units and supplies to the Normandy beaches.

R. C. Field Man Speaks

Colonel Gillespie concluded his talk with the showing of slides of photos he made last summer in battle areas and evacuation points in Normandy.

Before Col. Gillespie spoke, the group was addressed by Francis Lindaman, Littlestown, Red Cross field director who is home after nearly two years of duty in the Pacific. He described the "typical day" in the life of a Red Cross fieldman serving the needs of servicemen. While most of the appeals to the Red Cross, he said, have to do with tragic problems and the saddest side of soldiers' lives, many odd and even humorous cases turn up.

About 90 members of the three service clubs attended with President Walter Africa of the Rotary club presiding. The Rev. Ralph Gresh of the Rotary club gave the invocation and led group singing.

Dr. C. H. Johnson, a Rotarian, introduced the speaker.

Gross also will visit Franklin county on the first and third Thursdays of each month and will have an office in Chambersburg at the Hotel Washington.

Secretary Ickes took note today of coal mining stoppages and said he was ready to take over both bituminous and anthracite mines for government operation. After a White House call Ickes said he reported to President Truman that almost all hard coal operations were suspended and that soft coal miners were going out.

Pittsburgh, May 1 (AP)—

Scattered work stoppages were reported in Pennsylvania's soft coal fields today coincident with expiration of a truce ordered a month ago by United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis while negotiations for a new wage contract were going on. Union leaders attributed the walkouts to failure of the men to hear in sufficient time that the office of Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis had approved terms of the new contract.

WORKMEN ARE

As she gratefully slipped the water Christopher brought her the telephone began to ring. She started from her chair to answer it but his voice made her hesitate.

"I'll take care of that, Brenda. Are you all right?" he demanded breathlessly. She nodded, not trusting herself to speak. Then she heard him at the telephone across the room exclaim frantically.

"For God's sake don't let anyone come up to this apartment. Keep her down in the lobby. I tell you Mrs. Blair can't see anyone. I'll explain later—oh—"

He slammed the receiver back on its hook and hurried across the room. "I'm sorry Brenda. I couldn't stop her. She's on her way up here."

"Who—what are you talking about?"

"Someone—named Norman—coming here. I tried to stop her. The boy hurried up to me. I won't let her in."

In the distance they heard the clang of the elevator, then a knock on the apartment door. Christopher started for the hall.

"You better let her in," Brenda said in a low shaken voice. "She'll think we're trying to hide something, if you don't." She swayed to her feet as Christopher disappeared through the doorway. The next instant she heard Francine's voice shrilling:

"Oh, Tom—oh. I—I'm sorry. I don't know you—or do I?"

"My name is Humbert. I'm sorry to tell you there's been an accident. Mrs. Blair is in there. Please don't make it harder for her than it is now."

"An accident—not Tom—" The brittle voice rose to a higher pitch.

Chapter 22

Brenda stumbled across the room and bent over the motionless form on the floor.

"Tom, Tom," frantically she breathed his name, fear smothering her voice. Instinctively she reached out her hand as she knelt beside him, then drew back a little. There was nothing she could do. A dry, hard sob shook her as she gazed at it was too late. There was nothing anyone could do for Tom now. Then she felt two firm hands on her shoulders, drawing her up and away from the body.

"There is nothing you can do," Christopher said gently. "I would not touch anything. Here. Let me get something for you." He guided her to a chair near the window. "Sit here for just a minute. I'll find a glass of water—"

Desperately Brenda fought back the tears which were choking her. The shock of finding Tom dead stunned her for a few minutes, then gradually her head cleared and she was able to remember what the doctor had said:

"You must be very careful—no excitement—no emotional strain—There is only one end to the road you are traveling, Mr. Blair—" The words came back to her with desperate clearness now. Tom had reached the end of the road because he would not listen—or perhaps he didn't care enough—

As she gratefully slipped the water Christopher brought her the telephone began to ring. She started from her chair to answer it but his voice made her hesitate.

"I'll take care of that, Brenda. Are you all right?" he demanded breathlessly. She nodded, not trusting herself to speak. Then she heard him at the telephone across the room exclaim frantically.

"For God's sake don't let anyone come up to this apartment. Keep her down in the lobby. I tell you Mrs. Blair can't see anyone. I'll explain later—oh—"

He slammed the receiver back on its hook and hurried across the room. "I'm sorry Brenda. I couldn't stop her. She's on her way up here."

"Who—what are you talking about?"

"Someone—named Norman—coming here. I tried to stop her. The boy hurried up to me. I won't let her in."

In the distance they heard the clang of the elevator, then a knock on the apartment door. Christopher started for the hall.

"You better let her in," Brenda said in a low shaken voice. "She'll think we're trying to hide something, if you don't." She swayed to her feet as Christopher disappeared through the doorway. The next instant she heard Francine's voice shrilling:

"Oh, Tom—oh. I—I'm sorry. I don't know you—or do I?"

"My name is Humbert. I'm sorry to tell you there's been an accident. Mrs. Blair is in there. Please don't make it harder for her than it is now."

"An accident—not Tom—" The brittle voice rose to a higher pitch.

"I was afraid this would happen—" Her voice faltered, then she ran into the living room, stopping abruptly as she saw the body on the floor.

"My Gaud—this is awful—" Now her voice had dropped until it was scarcely more than a hoarse, frightened whisper. "He didn't get away with it—I knew they'd get him..."

Slowly she raised her head and stared at Brenda who was facing her across the room, bracing herself with one hand on the back of a chair. "So—you're Brenda." The whisper grew louder, became a hoarse monotone. "You know more than you'll tell, too. Both of us do. If he'd come across this wouldn't have happened. I warned him. I was afraid—"

The girl's face was ashen under her rouge. Her platinum blonde hair straggled limply around her face, evidently blown by the wind which was rising from the lake. She looked nervously from one to the other of the silent watchful people in front of her. Her forehead glistened with perspiration. Brenda saw the growing fear in her face.

"You are still afraid of something," Brenda thought, as the girl sank into the nearest chair, suddenly too shaken to stand.

"We'll have to get a doctor," Christopher said abruptly. "Whom shall I call?"

"Doctor Harrington. They'll get him for you at the switchboard. He lives next door."

Christopher hurried out of the room and when he returned a few minutes later Brenda was sitting in a chair and Francine Norman was standing in front of her, talking in a rasping voice that showed mounting excitement.

"I tell you he was bumped off. He was sick, all right, but not that sick. Don't you tell me Tom Blair died of a heart attack—that's the bunk. Too many people wanted to get rid of him. I told him—I warned him, but he wouldn't listen to me. Getting rid of people who are in the way—ain't hard. It's done every day..."

She giggled. It was like laughter with a bad flat undertone of hysteria in it.

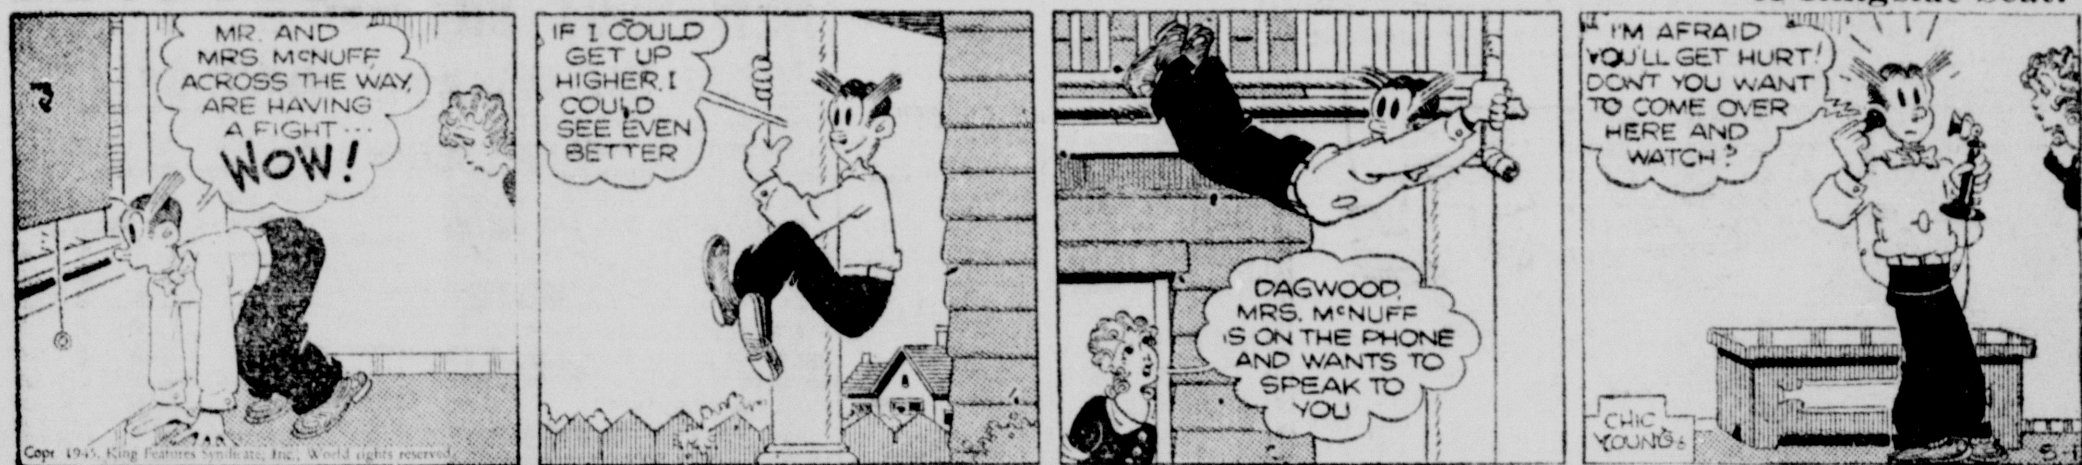

"Stop that," Christopher commanded angrily, striding across the room and pushing himself between the girl and Brenda. "Stop that noise. You don't know what you're talking about. You better go. Mrs. Blair can't stand any more tonight—from any one."

"No," the girl answered quickly. "I'm staying." But she walked away from him and started slowly circling the room. On the desk and the side tables she moved boxes and looked under magazines and books. Then she sauntered up to the door of the bedroom, but at a glance from Brenda Christopher barred her way at the door and motioned her to the sofa. With an insolent shrug of her shoulders the girl slouched down on one end of the sofa, and a silence menacing as death itself settled heavily over the room.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, May 1 (AP)—V-E Day on the networks will call for all-out broadcasting, with announced schedules subject to cancellation or drastic alteration.

Each network's program department has been preparing such advance material as is available—dramatizations, special concerts and the like. All are to be fitted in with overseas pickups from London, Paris, the battle zones, the Pacific areas and other points.

While a certain amount of jubilation is expected, a theme of all the broadcasts is centering on "there's still Japan to lick."
